KEY INGREDIENTS

- Hawaiian ti leaf (cordyline terminalis)—the large leaf of a tree found in the rain forests of the South Pacific. Historically, Polynesian firewalkers found the leaf to be a source of relief from the heat after they had walked across the firey coals. It was used to cool and soothe the skin.
- Babassu oil (orbignya oleifera)—a botanical used for generations by the people of South America as a natural skin softener and moisturizer.

FYI

When Polynesian fire walkers finish crossing the hot coals, they immediately step into a pile of Hawaiian ti leaves. The Hawaiian ti leaf absorbs heat and gives relief to their swollen hot feet. Samoan Fire Dancers often wear skirts made from large Hawaiian ti leaves. The large ti leaves help absorb the heat from the flames, keeping the dancers cool and comfortable

FREQUENTLY ASKED QUESTIONS

What makes Epoch® Firewalker® Foot Cream different from other foot creams on the market?

The essential ingredients in Epoch® Firewalker® Foot Cream are received from indigenous cultures (studied and observed by our ethnobotanists to determine what they use to help soothe tired, sore feet). The two ingredients that we use are Hawaiian ti (cordyline terminalis), used by Polynesian healers for centuries for its skin soothing and cooling properties, and babassu oil (orbignya phalerata), used by the people of South America as a natural moisturizer and skin softener.

Is Epoch® Firewalker® Foot Cream only meant to be used on the feet, or can I use it on other areas of the body as well?

Epoch® Firewalker® is an ethnobotanical formula designed to help soothe hot, tired, achy feet due to people standing or walking for long periods. While Epoch® Firewalker® could soothe any hot, tired, achy area of the body, it delivers the best results when used on sore feet. (Please note that Epoch® Firewalker® is not a cream for sore muscles and joints. Pharmanex® FlexCrème™ is the best product to decrease muscle and joint discomfort.) Of course, Epoch® Firewalker® is fine to use on other areas of the body, but no other body part takes the kind of abuse our feet do.

Therefore, other parts of the body won’t really feel the full soothing benefits from Epoch® Firewalker® like tired, sore feet will.

How does Epoch® Firewalker® differ from Epoch® IceDancer®?

Epoch® IceDancer® is an invigorating leg gel, while Epoch® Firewalker® is a relaxing foot cream. A simple way to differentiate the two is that Epoch® IceDancer® is applied to tired legs to give them the feeling of more energy. You apply it in the middle of an activity to help refresh and revitalize legs—it helps you make it through your busy day. Epoch® Firewalker®, on the other hand, is a reward for tired feet at the end of the day. It soothes and relieves pain from being on your feet all day. A food server or flight attendant may use Epoch® IceDancer® in the middle of a shift to revive their legs and then use Epoch® Firewalker® at the end of the day to soothe their tired, aching feet.

How is Epoch® Firewalker® different from Perennial®?

Perennial® is an intense body moisturizer with IBR Dormin™ used all over the body to help moisturize and protect dry skin from environmental stress. Epoch® Firewalker® is an ethnobotanical cream designed specifically to help soothe tired, achy feet.
