

NU SKIN PAVILION OPENS AT COMPANY'S GLOBAL HEADQUARTERS

PROVO, Utah—May 4, 2015—Nu Skin Enterprises today unveiled its state-of-the-art Nu Skin Pavilion. The two-story, glass building completes the recent Nu Skin campus expansion project and was designed for the company's sales force, providing them a place to conduct sales meetings and network with others. The new building sits at the west entrance of the campus and expands Nu Skin's corporate headquarters to more than 700,000 square feet.

“The Nu Skin Pavilion was built with our global sales force in mind as a place to carry out their dedication and passion for the business,” said Truman Hunt, Nu Skin president and chief executive officer. “The building is designed to be open, transparent and inspirational as sales leaders come to network with others, conduct training sessions and hold sales meetings.”

The new, 18,000-square-foot Pavilion features:

- A reflecting pool that captures the building and the mountains and also features 11 independently operated water jets for multiple fountain displays
- A second layer of glass surrounding the upper floor for energy efficiency while maintaining an open view into the building
- A state-of-the-art meeting room that accommodates up to 100 people and can be divided into two large meeting rooms separated by a retracting acoustical wall
- Smaller meeting rooms and common work spaces spread throughout the building with modern décor and furniture
- A white marble stairway wall
- Breathtaking mountain views that overlook 2.5 acres of green space

Nu Skin retained the architectural firm NBBJ of Seattle for the Nu Skin Pavilion. Okland Construction in Salt Lake City was the contractor for the building. To celebrate the official opening of the building, Nu Skin will hold a ribbon-cutting ceremony on May 8 at 11 a.m.
