

RESTART

■ HIGHLIGHTS:

- Used to regain Brand Representatives and their Groups.
- Requires a new LOI and Qualification.
- Gives Brand Representatives 3 Flex Blocks, plus any unused Flex Blocks.
- Can only be used once.

■ HOW IT WORKS:

If you fail to maintain your Brand Representative status and revert to being a Brand Affiliate, you may wonder if you can get back to where you were with your Team. The good news is yes, you can! If you want to get back on board with your business, you can ask to Restart. Restart lets former Brand Representatives undergo Qualification once more and reclaim their former Team. Plus, you get back any unused Flex Blocks and 3 additional ones to get you going.

■ FURTHER DETAILS

You can only Restart once, and you have to complete the process within 6 consecutive calendar months of being reclassified as a Brand Affiliate. If this deadline passes or you don't finish Restart, you will permanently lose the chance to regain any unused Flex Blocks and any Brand Representatives and their Groups you previously developed within your Team. You will also lose your previous Brand Representative Date.

If you have used Restart and you fail to maintain your status as a Brand Representative, we encourage you to start your journey over as a Brand Representative, but you'll have no ties to Brand Representatives in your former Team. Please contact your account manager for more details on how Restart works and/or to request a Restart.

Brand Representative Date — Brand Representative Date refers to the date you are classified as a Brand Representative. When using Restart, your original Brand Representative Date is restored.