About NU SKIN Company

SPOON STORY

This SPOON is the starting point of Nu Skin

The year was 1984 and a revolutionary idea was taking shape – an idea simple in scope, yet powerful in its ability to touch lives around the world. Nu Skin Enterprises was founded with the promise of high-quality, scientifically-based personal care products without harsh or harmful fillers that were typical in such products more than 30 years ago. This “all-of-the-good, none-of-the-bad” product philosophy led to the creation of Nu Skin’s original product line.

The initial products were delivered to the founders in 10-gallon containers and the team would carefully hand fill bottles with their efficacious formulations and apply labels. When packaged product ran out, eager customers would bring their own containers and the founders would fill them using a simple spoon. High product demand quickly made this method obsolete as the company began receiving pre-bottled products, yet the spoon has become a lasting reminder that the power to improve lives often starts with a small, simple first step.

Nu Skin was established in 1984 with an initial concept to develop a series of personal care products containing all of the good and none of the bad. Until now, she also develops health supplements and technology products. In these years, Nu Skin has been working hard to help people live better and longer.

At Nu Skin, we have been devoted to the development of anti-aging since our establishment. As an anti-aging pioneer, our approach to anti-aging is more than skin deep. We dig into the gene expressions level to investigate the secrets of anti-aging and finally we come up with an innovative solution to help you stay young, live young.

NU SKIN has developed the science to go beyond the symptoms of aging to target the sources of aging. ageLOC® is the result of years of unparalleled research in skin and nutritional science combined with some of the greatest minds in the scientific world. We are revolutionizing the health and beauty industries with products that offer comprehensive anti-aging solutions.

◀◀◀ MORE DETAILS

Patented Self-adjusting Current

The galvanic current is named after Luigi Galvani, an Italian scientist who, in 1791, discovered that body conducts electric currents and use it for health benefits.

Spa and salon professionals since then have used gentle Galvanic currents in customized treatments to refresh and energize the skin for several decades—because the gentle massaging action of a Galvanic treatment helps focus cellular energy and enhance circulation to improve skin clarity and complexion.

With the advancement of technology, the use of galvanic current had been extended to home beauty devices. ageLOC® Galvanic Spa® III can release positive or negative charges automatically in each treatment program, and the treatment gels are mutually conditioned by the galvanic current – like charges repel each other and opposites attract. As a result, the currents are able to “push” the product into the skin which facilitates the delivery of key ingredients and “pull” the dirt out from the skin.

Epoch®

Joining force with well-know ethnobotanists and technological developers, Nu Skin transforms the ancient wisdom of indigenous tribes into advanced products through the power of science. Epoch® offers a range of environmentally conscious products formulated according to well-guarded recipes passed on from generation to generation. Experience the bounty of nature with a compassionate heart toward the planet we are sharing.

Return to Nature that was Taken

The Key Figure that helped Nu Skin's launch the Epoch® series is Paul Alan Cox, Ph.D.-a man extolled by the Samoan as Nafanua. In 1981 he received his Ph.D. in Biology at Harvard University. He is one of the 25 ethnobotanists in the world and also the founder of Seacology, an environmental organization aiming at the preservation of rain forest. So far it has preserved 65,000 acres of rain forest on the Southern Pacific islands and established three schools and one hospital.

Dr. Cox spent his teenage years on Savai'i Island in Samoa as a missionary, during which he lived like the locals by learning their language and having local food on this small island without water and electricity supply. There was one time when he was gravely ill, the cacique came to see him, bringing him a basket of western food which he had spent all his saving for. The sick Dr. Cox was very touched by the friendly sentiments he experienced.

From learning the wisdom of the indigenous people's way of life to engaging in his research of ethnobotany, for Dr. Cox, that "basket of food" started his life-long devotion to the rainforest. The rainforest on Savai'i Island is also very precious that more than 40% of the plants in the forest cannot be found anywhere else.

In 1992, he published a research comparing western chemistry and indigenous herbalism, advocating the benefits of rainforest plants. Nu Skin was the only one responding to Dr. Cox's plan of helping locals and nature. This is what he said about Nu Skin, "a small firm with a great heart and partner I am looking for."

Since then Dr. Cox and Nu Skin have been the best partners. In 1996, Epoch®, the first series of personal care inspired by the indigenous wisdom, was launched under his direction. The series stormed the market with great success. Up to now it has made a sales figure of over 1.3 million dollars. The benefits of rainforest plants have continued to be experienced by many customers.

The vast land of southern Asia has long been nourished by natural minerals and nutrients from the lakes and the ocean. Deep in the forests on flatlands and mountainous areas, fruit and herbs with high nutritional value flourish. The daily life of the locals living along the Red River Delta of Northern Vietnam is inseparable with a kind of natively grown fruit. This fruit can be found in Northern Vietnam and other southern Asian Countries, known as the “Super fruit” – Gâc. Throughout the centuries, its magical health benefits have been greatly cherished by the locals.

In 1941, two western scientists, Guichard and Bui, travelled to Vietnam. They were curious about Gâc that the locals regarded as the “fruit from heaven”, and were amazed by the fruit’s efficacy. By doing further research, they discovered a very high concentration of carotenoids in Gâc, particularly beta-carotene and lycopene which was much higher than in other local fruits and vegetables in Vietnam. Remarkably, the carotenoids in Gâc could join with its fatty acids to create lipo-carotenes™ which would increase the bioavailability of carotenoids. Compared to β -carotene found in ordinary fruits and vegetables, β -carotene from Gâc would be more easily absorbed. This makes Gâc the ideal medium for nutrient absorption.

Gâc fruit: Fruit from Heaven

Gâc fruit

Gâc fruit is the main component of g3, the vibrant colour of the pulp is resulting from its rich content of natural carotenoid including beta-carotene and lycopene.
